Sexual Assault, Domestic Violence, and Stalking Prevention Information Policy 2024 05

The New York College of Health Professions is committed to preventing sexual assault, domestic violence, and stalking crimes. The Office of Student Services advises and updates students about sexual assault, domestic violence, and stalking crime prevention through a variety of means, including college publications, on-campus meetings and trainings, online resources, new student orientation programs, and email, as necessary.

Sexual assault, domestic violence, and stalking crime prevention information includes the nature of and common circumstances related to sexual assault, domestic violence, and stalking crimes, applicable laws, ordinances, and regulation of sexual assault, domestic violence, and stalking crimes, penalties for commission of sexual assault, domestic violence, and stalking crimes, and the availability of counseling and other support systems for victims of sexual assault, domestic violence, and stalking crimes.
